

Call for papers

Organic Farming, Food Quality and Human Health

This congress combines the Soil Association annual conference & the 1st Stakeholder Congress of the EU-Integrated Project QualityLowInputFood (QLIF)

On opportunity to reach a large audience with interests in organic food, across the supply chain; producers, processors, retailers, consumers, policy makers, researchers and other stakeholders

To be hosted by University of Newcastle upon Tyne
Thursday 6th - Sunday 9th January 2005

We need papers for technical sessions covering:

Quality definition & assurance

- Consumer expectations
- Control of food quality & safety
- Standards & regulations

Agronomy & fertility management of:

- Arable crops
- Field vegetables
- Fruit crops
- Protected crops

Husbandry, feeding and health for:

- Beef and sheep
- Dairy
- Pigs
- Poultry

We are also looking for shorter contributions to 20 workshops, planned to run throughout the congress:

A full programme, listing the workshops, along with details of submission procedure can be found at:

<http://www.qlif.org/forum/conf1/papers.html>

or contact the University of Newcastle on; 01661 830 222