

4th SAFO Workshop Invitation in Frick, Switzerland
17th-19th March 2005

" Systems development: Quality and safety of organic livestock products "

For the forth workshop, we are inviting specific contributions on:

- Aspects of quality and safety of organic livestock products from the producers', processors, retailers, consumers' point and societies point of view. AND/OR
- Impact of health management and veterinary treatment on quality and safety of organic livestock products.
- Researching the quality and safety of organic livestock products throughout the food chain AND/OR

We would particularly welcome contributions that focus on specific risk factors to food safety and quality of different organic livestock products in the whole food chain.

The workshop will consist of plenary presentation, discussions in small working groups and will include a farm visit.

We invite in particular the SAFO partners but also other interested persons from the organic sector and research to submit an abstracts (approx. 250 words) or suggest possible speakers for this workshop. Please submit your abstracts or sent your suggestions before the 25th of November 2004 to the SAFO workshop organiser:

Susanne Padel

IRS, University of Wales Aberystwyth,

E-mail sxp@aber.ac.uk

The workshop will be held at FIBL, Research Institute for Organic Farming in Frick (www.FIBL.orgimuz.edu.pl) between Zürich and Basel. Accommodation will be in local hotels, transport to the venue will provided. It will be free of charge for the partners of the SAFO network (see www.safonetwork.org), invited speakers and other guests of SAFO. Other participants can attend at their own expense, covering travel and subsistence.